This sort of reminds me of some of the tools we learned to use when we were kids and treasured very much.

As a matter of fact I own one at the present time that looks exactly like this one, and have not thrown it out. Yea, you know what I mean.

Enjoyed our visit on Christmas very much. If only we had a couple more times a year to get together it may not take so long to explain situations to the point where we can have meaningful conversation. We'll have to work on that.

Give Linda a big hug and kiss for me, and the two of you enjoy and celebrate the day.
